

Koh Samui was first "discovered" by backpackers around 35 years ago, attracted by the island's wild beauty and friendly locals and although the island has undergone some dramatic changes in the following years its natural tranquility still remains the same and its bohemian care free attitude will enchant you. With miles of white sand beaches and cobalt clear blue seas all around, you will know you have entered paradise itself.

How to get there:-

Nagalaya is located on the south coast of the Koh Samui, at Kao Lae hill, Laem set road.

Directions: 40 minutes from Samui Airport, 30 minutes from Chaweng and 30 minute from Nathorn Ferry Pier.

Nagalaya

A Tropical Retreat on Koh Samui

Welcome to Nagalaya

Nagalaya is an emerging community of 28 Residence on the largely unspoiled south coast of the island of Koh Samui in the Gulf of the Thailand.

The house are built into a stunning hillside. Originally a coconut plantation area, large spectacular boulders and beautiful developed communal gardens dominate.

The sea view are wonderful and the environment very special indeed.

Facilities feature:-

Nagalaya is an 'open plan', there are no walls on gates on the houses, the road winds up through a perpetual garden to a flat plateau.

Here locates an infinity swimming pool, changing rooms, club house and a large yoga sala. Several paths lead on up to a classic sunset viewpoint and scenic areas.

Around 40% of the Nagalaya estate has been held free of development and has been gracefully landscaped into natural groves of coconut palms featuring tamarind trees and wild mangos. A granite-crested peak lies at the center of the estate with panoramic views of the ocean, as well as Samui's central highlands.

Each of Nagalaya's one to three bedroom homes offer spectacular sea views of sunset as well as the Lamai bay.

Built on a lush hill rising from the sea Nagalaya invokes the primal paradise from which its name derives the jewel-encrusted abode of the Nagas, elemental beings who guided sages on their path to enlightenment. Nagalaya is al half-hour's drive from Koh Samui's award-winning airport and less than an hour's flight from Bangkok.
